

Wiki Assignment

Wikis are free, Web 2.0 applications that promote a number of instructional activities (collaboration, communication, participation, creativity, etc.). They can be teacher or student generated. The wiki you create for this assignment will function as a personal portfolio for this course. You will create pages for each of your assignments and place each assignment on that page. This assignment will be assessed/graded periodically throughout the semester to make sure the required assignments have been added correctly.

Wiki Requirements

- o The wiki has an appropriate name.
- o The name in the tab has been changed.
- o A relevant picture has been added to the front page.
- o Background color has been changed
- o A page has been created for each of the assignments.
- o Hyperlinks are provided to relevant assignments (assignments)
- o All relevant documents are attached (assignments)
- o Hyperlinks and documents (attachments) have been given a descriptive name and hyperlinked to the appropriate site/document, etc.
- o You have added your wiki to the appropriate page on the course wiki.
- o All links open in a new window
- o Security is set for Custom “invite only”
- o You have invited me to join your wiki

Mechanics

- o Correct Spelling
- o Correct Grammar
- o Correct Punctuation

Written Assignment

In writing, address the following:

- Identify a SPECIFIC lesson/activity that a wiki could be used in your present classroom (where possible, this should be STUDENT-CENTERED).
- How does your use of the wiki meet KYTS 6?
- How does your use of the wiki meet the NETS*T?
- Using the assigned articles (research) or additional readings, give a rationale for using the wiki in your classroom OR for why a wiki could not be used in your classroom.
- Following the guidelines for written materials on your syllabus, turn a copy of this into me.
